“HyperMotion is a testament to the incredible work being done by the EA SPORTS data and motion capture teams in bringing the sport of FIFA closer to players,” said Sean O’Loughlin, vice president and general manager, FIFA. “The ongoing partnerships we’ve built with top athletic technology companies allow us to capture the intensity of a football match, in every physical and mental aspect of play, and pass that data directly into a new and immersive gameplay experience. This is just a first glimpse of what’s to come.” Fans can experience all the real-life movement, speed, intensity and intensity of play that can be found in FIFA 22 the week of June 23-26, when the EA SPORTS FIFA Ultimate Team community will have the chance to build teams based on the in-game data during the FIFA 22 Open, a week-long event that is unlike anything the franchise has ever seen before. The Open will not only give fans the opportunity to join a league and earn gold coins, but also put them in the shoes of the actual players as they compete for “gold” themselves. FIFA 22 has been built from the ground-up using a new engine developed with the help of a first-party integration team and a motion capture team, including Stanford University, MIT Media Lab, Bentley University and the creators of the Motion Graphite technology. With its new data-driven engine and gameplay AI systems, FIFA 22 is built for speed and accuracy. Fans can experience this speed and accuracy in the all-new speed-boost feature in the “FIFA Creator” tool. With the push of a button, players are able to move closer to their shot with a lot more power, providing a fun and competitive way for users to relive their favorite moments in the world of FIFA. Built-in Pro Clubs and Customize-ability are also new to FIFA 22. Pro Clubs, featuring cutting-edge player AI, physics and shot routines, create a powerful new element of game play that gives players the tools to create their own player build. Users can now customize any player in the game at any level for gameplay tweaks, a much-needed and requested feature. There are now over 60 new clubs, including 25 League and Competition Clubs and over 30 National Teams, featuring over 160 of the world’s best players. Players will also be able to get up close and personal with a new, physical

What's new:

- FIFA 22 introduces “HyperMotion Technology,” which uses motion capture data from 22 players to power gameplay. Collect player data from up to 22 real-life footballers during a high-intensity match in a motion capture suit while being photographed and tracked in 360 degrees. The data is captured during the match and interpreted to create new AI-driven behaviors. Use the data to complement your movements, avoid danger, and increase the chances of scoring.
- FIFA 22 includes four all-new modes: “Run the Gamut”, “Exhibition”, “Presets” and “The Journey”; features a new Career Mode and Player Journey across clubs; ranks and awards off contracts based on attributes and reputation, and rewards players, coaches and clubs with useful items.
- Player traits such as aerial ability, speed and vision are now the dynamic key attributes across all abilities, as well as a new and more nuanced influence from stability, dribbling, running speed and acceleration.
- New and existing game modes include a revamped Pro-Am mode; “Twin Spirit” mode offers an extra ball to tactical challenges, gives a visual boost to weak links, and creates a more communicative environment. In “Agony Moments” (Goalkeeper Showdown), every single shot lands, EVERY SINGLE ONE, while new “Playmaker Classes” helps to elevate your players’ development. New Career Mode features fewer, but more meaningful game events, so that your Career path is more interactive.
- New “HyperMotion”, giving each player an in-game dynamic that combines pass and shot location with small markers on feet and body to replicate real-world player movement.
- New and improved stadium visuals, player kits, player editing (add features to create original kits), improved match-making, new combat options, and immersive goal celebrations.
